

27 May 2020

AUSTRALIAN CHIROPRACTIC COLLEGE SIGNS MOU WITH COLLEGE FOR CHIROPRACTIC PAEDIATRICS

The Australian Chiropractic College is pleased to announce a collaborative Memorandum of Understanding signed this week with the College of Chiropractic Paediatrics (CCP).

Established in 2012, CCP's principle purpose is to advance the clinical application and scientific understanding of paediatric chiropractic and to facilitate collaboration, research and education for the betterment of the children of our community.

Of note, CCP has made a significant contribution of $15,000 to the College.

"CCP has dedicated itself over several years to advancing the understanding of chiropractic care for children through research and education. We are delighted to provide these funds to the Australian Chiropractic College – an institution with a similar purpose to ours," said Dr Alevaki, Chair, College for Chiropractic Paediatrics.

"Our experience and energies in this field will now be directed toward supporting ACC in its educational and research activities."

ACC will benefit directly from the exchange of intellectual property and CCP's particular focus for the care of babies and children, with a view to incorporating paediatric chiropractic care in ACC's course offerings.

"This represents a wonderful opportunity for the Australian Chiropractic College to begin to build expertise and study pathways in areas of specialist interest to our students," said Dr Patrick Sim, Australian Chiropractic College President. "ACC will work towards offering paediatric chiropractic within our programs by 2024. We are also sincerely grateful to the Board and members of CCP for their support of our endeavours, and look forward to the collaboration to come."